RUSSIAN TROOPS DRIVE INTO ODESSA

NAZI AIRCRAFT PLANTS BOMBED AT TOULOUSE

Big RAF Planes Out on First Raid in Week; Ploesti Attacked.

BULLETIN

LONDON, April 6—The Germans' Frankfurt radio warned today that "enemy bombers are flying toward southeast Germany," possibly foretelling a penetration of the reich by Italy-based bombers of the American 15th air force.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 6—RAF heavy bombers, taking to the air for the first time in a week, last night blasted German aircraft repair plants at Toulouse in southern France, less than 50 miles from the Spanish border, the air ministry announced today.

"The targets were clearly seen in the moonlight and first reports indicate that the bombing was effective," the announcement said.

The raid represented a round-trip flight of at least 1,000 miles. All but one of the big bombers returned, the air ministry said. Mines also were laid in enemy waters during the night.

The assault capped a day in which the American forces sent fighters against the Berlin and Munich areas and heavy bombers to Rumania's Ploesto oil field region in a two-way strike from bases in Britain and the Mediterranean.

Flying Fortresses and Liberators from Italy, fighting through heavy opposition, executed the Ploesti attack, hitting the region's rail yards rather than its oil equipment.

The raid provided direct support for the advancing Russian armies, whose spearheads are approximately 200 miles northeast of Ploesti. American bombers earlier this week hit Bucharest and Budapest.

A Berlin broadcast claimed 52 American bombers shot down over Ploesti. Allied headquarters in Naples did not say what losses were incurred.

Eight fighters of the U. S. Eighth air force failed to return from yesterday's operations over Germany but formations of Liberators which hit the Pas-De-Calais coast came back without loss.

Fliers said tank cars filled with oil were set afire, tracks ripped by explosives, and smoke columns went three miles into the air as the American bomber fleet and escort of fighters blasted strings of cars that gorged Ploesti's two freight yards.

Other U. S. heavy bombers blasted Nis, a rail junction in Jugoslavia.

The communique said several dozen Nazi planes were destroyed on the ground in the Berlin and Munich sweeps. Five others were shot down.

40 Enemy Planes Downed at Ploesti

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, April 6 — American heavy bombers and their fighter escorts shot down more than 40 enemy planes during yesterday's big raid on Ploesti, Rumania, Germany's main source of oil, allied headquarters announced today.

Twelve heavy bombers failed to return from all Mediterranean theater air operations yesterday, including the Ploesti attack.

Mediums and fighter-bombers continued their intensive campaign against German communications in Italy. All rail lines from northern Italy to the front area have been reported cut, with the Germans unable to move through trains since March 28.

Air Marshal Sir John C. Slessor, deputy commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean allied air forces said the Ploesti oil fields were vital to the Germans "on anything like a long term basis." "The Germans could not possibly carry on without them," he said.

Slessor announced the total number of enemy planes shot down in Sunday's raid on Steyr, Austria, now has been found to total 137—the biggest bag ever scored by planes from the Mediterranean theater in a single raid.

They received the state honors at the annual Ohio convention of the Future Farmers of America in Columbus March 25 after being scored on the basis of farming efficiency, scholastic record, cooperative participation, thrift, leadership and participation in community activities. Dasher received the additional honor of being chosen high among the state farmers in a four-county district.

The state farmer degree is the highest that can be conferred by the Ohio FFA. All of those honored carry on extensive farm projects in addition to their high school work.

JAPS SUFFER LOSS IN INDIA

Enemy Caught in Ambush While Continuing Heavy Pressure on Imphal.

By The Associated Press

Allied troops continued to kill and wound Japanese in India, but the enemy is still exerting pressure along the Assam front north of Imphal, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters reported today.

There were, however, three bright spots in the India-Burma picture. Mountbatten's headquarters said the allies have inflicted casualties on the Japanese in ambushes north and south of Imphal.

Japs Driven South

Chinese forces in northern Burma are driving the Nipponese steadily southward in the upper Mogaung valley and are advancing on the village of Wakawng. Twenty-four Japanese planes were destroyed in an air commando attack on the Aungban airfield in central Burma Tuesday, the Mountbatten bulletin reported.

At Wewak, northeast New Guinea, Fifth air force bombers dumped 206 tons of bombs Tuesday, striking 13 Japanese planes on the ground and starting large fires, all without opposition.

Australians moving toward Madang, southeast down the coast, were last reported nine miles from Bogadjim, 20 miles south of Madang. An American contingent is 13 miles from Bogadjim.

EIGHT KILLED IN DEPOT BLAST

50 Tons of Explosives Let Go at Hastings, Nebr., Naval Storage.

By The Associated Press

HASTINGS, Neb., April 6—An estimated hundred thousand pounds of high explosives—depth charges and mines—went up in a terrific blast at the Hastings naval ammunition depot today that shook the entire countryside for miles around, and claimed eight civilian depot employes as victims—three killed outright and five missing "presumed to be dead."

Three workers who were in a heavily reinforced concrete cooling shed that contained the high explosives managed to survive but were in a critical condition.

Capt. D. F. Patterson, commander at the depot, said a railroad box car beside the shed went up first, and the shed followed.

In addition 35 people sustained injuries described as minor. Damage was estimated at $50,000, Capt. Patterson said. All the dead and injured were civilian depot employes living near here.

The three killed were Norris Frey, Chester Curtis and Lyda Mitchell. Missing are Mary McQuaid, Vera Connant, Laverne Hopkins, Lois Adams and Keith Mathensain. Three critically hurt were George Armstrong, Mable Wise and Leona Tassieux, who were in the shed.

The explosion shattered windows in about 20 stores in Hastings, an estimated 10½ miles

BRICKER HOPES FOR SHARE OF WILLKIE VOTES

Goernor Declares, However, He Has No Idea Where Strength Will Go.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 6—Gov. Bricker said today he hadn't the least idea where Wendell Willkie's strength might go now that the 1940 Republican presidential standard bearer has removed himself from the 1944 race for nomination.

Newsmen asked the only remaining candidate who is campaigning personally for the nomination whether it was not a natural assumption that he hoped to get "your share of that strength."

"Yes, of course," the governor grinned.

Bricker returned early today from Pittsburgh where he met last night, he said, with "50 or 60 industrialists." He was in that meeting when word of Willkie's withdrawal was announced, and Bricker said in a brief statement the move "comes as a surprise."

Plans Unchanged

The withdrawal, Bricker said, would make no difference in his campaign plans. The three-term governor has been traveling throughout the nation and leaves today for Indianapolis to address the Press club tonight. He will go then to Chicago, and proceed thereafter to the west coast for a nine-day swing through California, Oregon and Washington.

He announced that his coast trip would include a speech April 16 before the California assembly, a group of persons backing Gov. Earl Warren.

Bricker's statement of last night, which he refused to amplify today, asserted:

"Wendell L. Willkie stimulated interest in the 1944 campaign by freely and courageously discussing his conception of the issues that are facing us in this very serious situation," the governor said. "His withdrawal comes as a surprise."

The governor's formal statement was issued through his office here, while he was meeting with party leaders in Pittsburgh.

"I have visited a number of states in the east, in the south and in the west and I have found the people everywhere eager to hear a forthright discussion of the critical war and postwar problems," the statement added.

"I propose to continue my best efforts to let the public know my position in all respects."

In Washington, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio said:

"Mr. Willkie has apparently recognized the inevitable. It is unfortunate that he allowed his natural disappointment to lead him to attack Republicans who disagreed with him on foreign policy."

Senator Harold H. Burton of Ohio said:

"I think he (Willkie) can be of great value in these times and by eliminating himself as an individual can be of even greater value to the party than if he pressed his efforts to a final conclusion on a personal basis."

Senator Butler of Nebraska declared, "I believe Bricker and Dewey will divide whatever support Mr. Willkie had."

Willkie, Conceding He Has No Chance To Win, Withdraws from G. O. P. Presidential Race

Republican Standard Bearer of 1940 Makes Sensational Announcement in Omaha After Defeat in Wisconsin.

By The Associated Press

OMAHA, April 6—Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican party's 1940 standard bearer and an indefatigable campaigner for the honor again this year, has withdrawn from the race, conceding he has no chance to win the party's 1944 presidential nomination.

In an abrupt and dramatic announcement at a rally in Omaha city auditorium last night Willkie, at the conclusion of his prepared speech on "foreign policy," told a crowd of 3,000 he was quitting as a candidate for the G. O. P. nomination for president, asserting "it is obvious that I can not be nominated."

The unexpected statement, which Willkie described as "something quite personal—something perhaps of not much importance"—urged that his friends "desist from any activity" toward his nomination.

His decision was attributed to his failure to win a single delegate Tuesday in the Wisconsin primary. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, although not a declared candidate, emerged with 15 delegates pledged outright and three claimed for him.

Crowd Taken By Surprise

The crowd, apparently not immediately sensing the significance of the brief announcement, vigorously applauded Willkie.

As Willkie, smiling, shook hands with local political leaders, the crowd lingered, and there were puzzled expressions on the faces of many, obviously astonished at hearing Willkie declare he was stepping out from the quickening contest for the nation's highest political office.

Until the end of his 50-minute prepared speech, devoted primarily to criticism of the administration's foreign policy, Willkie gave no intimation of his withdrawal announcement. His speech climaxed his five-day campaign of Nebraska, where he is entered in the presidential primary April 11.

Addressing "fellow Americans," Willkie said his announcement "involves what I have been trying to do—what I have been fighting for."

He said it was his conviction "no Republican could be nominated for president unless he received at the convention the votes of some of the major midwestern states," where, he said, the Re-

Willkie Declines Amplification of Omaha Statement

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 6—Wendell L. Willkie, smiling broadly and saying he felt "wonderful," declined today to amplify his statement that he had stepped out of the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

Willkie, who stopped in Chicago for three hours while enroute from Nebraska to New York, told newsmen there would be no enlargement at this time of his statement in Omaha last night, conceding that he could not win.

One reporter asked if he thought Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York would be the Republicans' 1944 nominee. Willkie grinned and replied: "You know as much about that as I do."

In response to other queries he said it would be too late, he thought, to withdraw his name from next Tuesday's primary in Nebraska and reported he did not know just what formal steps would be taken concerning withdrawal of his name from primaries in other states where he had entered.

Willkie said in reply to another query that he did not have any plans for a vacation.

Watch Effect on Gov. Dewey

New York Governor Maintains Silence Held Since Start of Campaign.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 6 — A presidential nomination without strings floated enticingly close before Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York today as Wendell L. Willkie quit the Republican race after losing a long-shot gamble for Wisconsin delegates.

Dewey, who reached for the prize in Philadelphia in 1940 only to find Willkie had grabbed it, stood out as the leading possibility for the nomination in the wake of Willkie's dramatic blow out of a contest on which he had spent most of his efforts for the last four years.

Willkie failed to win a delegate in Wisconsin, where 15 pledged Dewey representatives were elected despite the New York governor's previous plea for them to withdraw. The 1940 nominee threw in the sponge with the announcement that it was obvious he could not be nominated after his decisive setback in Wisconsin.

Dewey Keeps Busy

Characteristically, Dewey busied himself at Albany with a stack of legislative bills and said nothing about his future plans—a silence some backers said he might maintain up to the time of the June nominating convention.

He has said he is not a candidate—but never that he would not accept.

While others thought the pressure for a statement to the effect that he would take a proffered nomination might become too great to withstand, intimates of the governor said he had made up his mind that if he is to be the standard bearer, he does not want to owe his selection to any individual or single element in the party, or to have any other strings attached.

Now Has 132 Delegates

With a minimum of 132 convention delegates pledged or claimed for him, as compared with 26 pledged to Lieut. Cmdr. Harold E. Stassen and three to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Dewey seemed well started toward such a goal. His other major opponent, Gov. Bricker of Ohio, has yet to

SOVIET FORCES HIT CITY FROM THREE POINTS

Another Red Unit Drives on Last Rail Escape Route from Sea Port.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, April 6 — Russian storm troops pushed into the outlying suburbs of Odessa today and the roar of battle echoed throughout the city.

Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's cavalry and light tanks drove on the great Black sea port from three directions, front line dispatches said, advancing from positions which last night were only nine miles from the heart of the metropolis.

The right flank of Malinovsky's Third Ukrainian army pushed through the quagmires west of the city, heading for the Odessa-Ovidopol spur railway—last remaining escape route to Rumania for the defenders of Odessa, the dispatches added.

Main Rail Escape Cut

Malinovsky's cavalry and tanks had cut off the main escape route to Rumania by capturing Razdelnaya, 38 miles northwest of Odessa, and then pressing southwestward to take Strassburg, which commands a side road from Odessa to Tiraspol on the lower Dniester river.

If previous German practice has been followed commanders of the axis forces in the Odessa area probably have already deserted their men fleeing by ship and plane.

Four Red army pushes are being aimed at the heart of Odessa.

A Red Star dispatch said recent heavy rains have complicated ground conditions but that Malinovsky's cavalry and light tanks are solving that problem.

Northwest of Odessa, where the Russians have encircled German and Rumanian groups in the Skala area and in the city of Tarnopol, the merciless battle for their extermination has reached new fury with the end of the blizzard which has been sweeping southern Russia for three days and nights.

Nazis Lose 1000 Killed

A dispatch from Major Mikhail Mikhaliov to Red Star said the Germans lost 1,000 dead and 20 tanks in their first big attempt to break out of the Skala trap yesterday, and a second effort cost them even more dead.

At Skala, Junkers transport planes were reported making numerous trips in attempts to evacuate Nazis trapped in that sector west of Kamenets Podolsk, with 11 of them shot down within the past 24 hours.

Moscow again failed to mention progress of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's second Ukrainian army, last reported within eight miles of Iasi, across the Prut river in Rumania proper.

(British military experts expressed opinion today Rumania's days as an effective fighting power were collapsing under the onslaught of Russian armies and allied bombers.

(A Blu network broadcast from London last night quoted Turkish dispatches as saying Premier Ion Antonescu is preparing to ask Moscow, Washington and London for an armistice.)

ESCAPED MARION CO. PRISONER. CAPTURED

Robert Wickham Arrested in California.

Robert Wickham, 48, convicted bank robber from Marion county who walked away from the honor camp at the London prison farm in July, 1941, has been arrested at Oroville, Calif., according to an Associated Press dispatch. He will be returned to Ohio the dispatch stated.

Wickham was convicted in 1932 of robbing a bank at Morral and was sentenced to 25 years in the Ohio penitentiary.

Marion police early this year were asked to be on the lookout for Wickham when it was rumored that he was in this vicinity.

CAP Here Aids Hunt for Plane

Marion Civil Air Patrol members are planning to participate in a systematic survey of Marion county by airplane as part of a widespread hunt for a missing plane in which three Michigan men disappeared Monday night. Lieut. W. R. Reichenstein, commanding officer of the Marion squadron of the CAP, said similar hunts will be made by other squadrons in this part of Ohio.

The missing plane left Benton Harbor, Mich., for Detroit Monday night, was unable to land because of bad weather and reported by radio it was bound for Ohio to seek a place to land. It has not been heard from since. The men aboard the plane, a Beechcraft five-passenger ship, were Robert Burke, Allen Dillon and Richard Ford.

Marion Churches Prepare For Observance of Good Friday

Marion congregations, will join with others throughout the Christian world in observing Good Friday tomorrow as Holy week draws to a close and Easter approaches. The day of the crucifixion of Christ will be observed by a union service from noon to 3 p. m., the hours that Christ hung on the cross, and individual church groups will meet for special services both afternoon and night. Included will be services of worship, devotions, communion and baptism.

The union service, sponsored by the Marion County Ministerial association, will be held in Calvary Evangelical church with various ministers presenting phases of the theme, "What Others said at the Cross." Rev. Garrison Roebuck will preside. Mrs. J. W. Baker will officiate as organist, prayer will be by Rev. Eldred Johnston, Scripture, the fifty-third chapter of the book of Isaiah, by Rev. E. H. Wierth, and congregational singing of hymns will be interspersed with interpretations of the "sayings."

Quotation of Sayings

Rev. Roebuck will give the opening sentence. The first of the "sayings of others" will be the words of Pilate, the governor, as he presented Christ to the multitude, "Behold the Man," John 19:5, presented by Dr. R. H. Miller of Manchester, Ind., guest speaker. Following sayings will be those of the soldiers as they cast lots for Christ's garment, "Let us not rend it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be," John 19:24, Rev. John A. Carriker; the jibe of the multitude, "Thou that destroyest the temple and buildest it in three days, save thyself if Thou be the Son of God, come down from the cross," Rev. J. H. Canada; the malefactor crucified with Christ, "Lord, remember me when Thou comest into Thy kingdom," Luke 23:42, Rev. W. E. Zimmerman; the chief priests and scribes, "He saved others, himself he cannot save," Mark 15:31, Rev. R. W. Faulkner; the centurion, "Truly this man was the son of God," Mark 15:39, Rev. Warren H. Bright; the voice of God, "Behold, the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom; and the earth did quake, and the rocks rent," Matt. 27:51, Dr. Warren P. Behan. The committee arranging the service included Rev. H. C. Ahrens, Rev. O. D. Myers and Rev. T. A. Ballinger.

Other Services

Good Friday services in individual churches tomorrow will include St. Mary Catholic, mass presanctified service at 8 a. m., devotions from 2 p. m. to 3 and Way of the Cross, 7:30 p. m.; devotions in St. Paul's Episcopal church, 2 p. m.; vespers at 7:30 p. m. in Emanuel Lutheran church; St. Paul's English Lutheran service, 7:30 p. m.; baptismal rites in Central Christian, 7:30; Forest Lawn Presbyterian, communion and consecration service; 7:30; worship services in Oakland Evngelical, First Church of the Brethren, and Wesley Methodist, each at 7:30 and Prospect Street Methodist at 8. A "remembrance" service for servicemen will be held at the Salvation Army citadel at 8 p. m. The afternoon hours tomorrow will be kept at Second Pilgrim Holiness church for prayer and fasting from noon to evening at the convenience of individual worshipers and a special service will be held at 7:30 p. m.

POWER PLANT HIT BY STRIKE AT PHILO

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., April 6—Approximately 50 unionists were idle today in a partial shutdown of the Ohio Power Co.'s Philo plant, near Zanesville, and company officials charged the workers, members of the CIO Utility Workers Union, with engaging in an unauthorized "wildcat work stoppage."

A company official who declined the use of his name reported six workers protested a work schedule change and walked out Monday. Approximately 44 day shift workers refused to report for work later, the official said, but night operators remained at their jobs. Total personnel of the unit is 465.

"We believe we can work out an operating schedule that will avoid any curtailment of service in eastern Ohio," the spokesman declared. The company, with headquarters here, serves light and power to Ohio.

A war board conciliator was scheduled to meet with company and union officials today.

Army Nurses Trained for Front Line Duty

MAIL CALL: ARMY NURSES, LIKE G.I. JOES, LIVE FOR THOSE WELCOME LETTERS FROM HOME.

Associated Press Features.

CAMP CARSON, Colo.—What are Army nurses made of?

How can they take the dangers and gruelling hardships they are called upon to meet daily on battlefronts around the world? Where do they get the stamina to work tirelessly close to the fighting fronts, live under primitive conditions, even face enemy fire?

Upon what reserves can they call for the gallantry and devotion to duty that has won for many of them the same medals awarded to our fighting men?

Here at Camp Carson they know the answers. For it is here that many nurses now overseas learned how to "take it" and many others are undergoing the tough training that will fit them for the stern life ahead, on the fighting fronts.

Here they sleep in tents in the rugged Rocky Mountains, hike miles with full packs, undergo surprise gas and smoke attacks and learn to go on bivouac in the field with the men and officers of their hospital units.

Just how thorough this training is was shown recently when the 226th Station hospital, commanded by Maj. Raymond E. Davies, went on bivouac. This is the story:

"Forward March!"

"Are you ready? Helmets adjusted, leggings fastened, canteens filled?" asks Lt. Muriel Light, chief nurse. She gives the command, "Forward March!" and the nurses leave the post at 8:30 in the morning for their bivouac area 10 miles away. They step along briskly, keeping up with the men and officers of the outfit.

At 11:30 they go over the last hill into the pine-dotted valley chosen for the bivouac area. The hard ground makes a welcome place to rest and G.I. helmets a good pillow.

Rest is not for long, but it is interrupted by the welcome sound of "Chow." And do those nurses pack away huge sandwiches of cheese, bologna and liverwurst, potato salad and hot coffee!

Almost as welcome as chow call is mail call. Nurses are no different from G.I.'s. They live for mail call and that letter from home, or from someone now overseas.

Time to read your mail and then there is work to be done. Classes are held for two hours in first aid, ambulance loading and litter drill. Nurses must have many hours of training in the field so that they can operate quickly and efficiently when sent overseas, as they are doing in Italy on the Anzio beach. After these problems, athletic games are scheduled to help in toughening bodies. The comradeship and joviality of the nurses, officers and enlisted men binds the hospital units into a group, working, thinking and playing together.

Another G.I. meal after retreat and a little time to gather around the fire and sing. Steel helmets make odd shadows in the firelight. The husky voices of the men blend with those of the nurses. But fun is not for long because a night problem has been scheduled. All must be quiet and obey orders, as a simulated attack of the camp is taking place.

At last, time for bed. Even though the nurses are dead tired, they still take a few minutes for beauty work. Cold cream jars come out of green G.I. musette bags. A few pin up their short cropped hair. All wear warm pajamas and soon are zipped into their bed rolls. The big gasoline lamp is turned out by the chief nurse, Lt. Light. She's young and attractive but can give orders quickly and efficiently when necessary.

Reveille! That mountain breeze is cold in the tent! Some warm their wash cloths by the coal stoves. (The nurses gather the wood and build their own fires.)

Hot coffee and a good breakfast, and they are off to work again on extended order drill. Nurses know how to march in extended order drill just in case they meet up with the enemy. They learn to hit the ground, run on the double and keep a certain distance apart when marching.

Training With Maps.

Then comes map reading. They study along with the men. Maps of their bivouac area are provided and they must be able to find their location from the map.

The second day of bivouac is a full one. Perhaps the most exciting incident is the gas attack. While marching, tear gas and smoke is released as a surprise. Quickly the nurses put their gas masks on and walk safely through the gas.

Their beds are as welcome the second night as they were the night before. The next morning when they awake the ground is covered with snow.

Snow or no snow there is still work to be done—and the nurses do it cheerfully and efficiently before returning to camp.

This station hospital is just one of the many which have trained at Carson. From the commanding officer of one of these outfits now serving overseas (the name of which can not be given) comes the following words of praise about the rugged training nurses of these hospitals get:

"Our conditioning at our home station stood us mighty well. Col. Wilfred M. Blunt, camp commander, and his training officer, Lt. Col. Theodore A. Arndt, had exactly the right idea. Our nurses have taken whatever came along in stride and the hardships don't bother them. Thanks to the hardening and the woolens, especially the long-handled underwear, we've done pretty well."

The city of Havana was 100 years old when the Pilgrims sailed into Massachusetts Bay on the Mayflower.

"NO MORE TROUBLE WITH CONSTIPATION!"

Says Long-Time Sufferer Who Tried Laxative Cereal!

If you, too, are disappointed with pills and purgatives, be sure to read this unsolicited letter!

"For several years I was afflicted with common constipation. I tried various remedies, but got only temporary relief. Several months ago, I started eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN each morning, drinking water freely through the day. I have since never had the slightest trouble with constipation. My gratitude to KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN." Mr. H. M. Riley, 11 E. Division Street, Chicago, Ill.

Scientists say KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can really "get at" a common cause of constipation—lack of sufficient "cellulosic" elements in the diet — because it is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements! They work by helping the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. Doesn't "sweep you out"! It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food.

If you have constipation of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you, too, don't cheer its welcome relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Little Pig Slaughter Repetition Forecast

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 6—Rep Martin (R-Iowa) said today he had received a "forecast" that the 1934-1935 "economy of scarcity" slaughtering of millions pigs and calves may be repeated.

The Iowan expressed alarm over a letter he said was written him by Price Administrator Chester Bowles in reply to an inquiry about steps taken to assure adequate grain and feed production.

"From our knowledge," he quoted Bowles' letter, "it would seem there is a possibility there will have to be some curtailment of the amount of livestock which this country can maintain and still have sufficient grain to take care of the commercial requirements in the best interests of the war."

Ham Plentiful For Easter Sunday Dinner

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 6—Housewives should not have much difficulty in finding a ham for the meat item on the traditional Easter meal and eggs are so plentiful the poultry trade hopes the custom of coloring them for children will experience a war-time Easter boom.

This was the cheerful news available for consumers today from the meat packing and poultry industries. However, it was not so cheerful for farmers, as they were selling hogs and eggs at prices far below those prevailing a year ago.

The present heavy run of hogs is the largest in history for this time of year.

The supply of eggs is so great prices to the farmers have dropped drastically.

More Liquors Taken from Ration List

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 6—Imported gin and cordials were added to Ohio's list of unrationed spirits beginning with the next six-week ration period, April 10 to May 20 inclusive, State Liquor Director Don A. Fisher announced today.

Brandy and rum already are off the ration list, and the addition of cordials and imported gin leaves only whisky and domestic gin rationed. Ration card holders may buy one quart, one fifth or two pints of whisky or domestic gin during the next ration period.

Fisher also announced that the allocation to dealers of cordials and imported gin had been increased from 50 per cent to their full quota based on the number of bottles obtained during the first half of 1942. This means, he explained, they may purchase the same amount of those spirits as obtained during that period.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

HOME FRONT DUTY

Editor of The Star: If any one attempted to deprive the American citizen of the right to vote, there would probably be an armed revolution but in the last election a very large percentage of American workers and members of their families failed to vote, because they neglected to register, and no one can vote in Marion unless properly registered.

As a result of this failure the enemies of true democracy won sweeping victories in many states, the effects of which can be seen in Washington every day.

There are far too many people who take liberty for granted just as a part of their every day life. It is indeed dangerous to stay away from the polls on election day and expect to keep our freedom. We must not forget that during the past few years when we have been battling economic evils at home and military evils abroad that "new doctrines" have taken root in the United States. Already there are men among us, some in high places, who tell us that the old individualism, on which our government is founded, is departing, never to return, and that we will have to adopt in America some sort of socialized government to fit our American needs. Shame on the man or woman, born, raised and educated in America who would make such a statement. We have a Constitution and a Bill of Rights that have made a great country and for which our forefathers fought and died to give us. What are we going to do with it? We have been told in the past that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. Have you been keeping eternal vigilance by voting on election day? The ballot is a fundamental factor in preserving our kind of government. Free government rests upon the vote of free citizens. When people quit voting free government is on the way out.

We would offend some people terribly if we called them slackers; they patriotically send their sons out to protect with bullets "the American way of life," yet they are not interested in protecting it at home with their ballots. Are you one of these persons? It has been said in the past and deserves to be repeated that if the American government is ever overthrown it will be by enemies within the gates rather than the alien enemies outside. You say what can we do? We who want to preserve democracy, block the federal bureaucrats, and the pressure groups which seek to concentrate all power in Washington? This is how you can help to do it. If you are not registered go to our board of elections office and see that you and the voting members of your family are properly registered. In so doing you will be helping to keep the lamps of liberty burning to guide our boys home from across the seas. And don't forget that the issue of 1944 is not Democrats against Republicans, but fourth term dictatorship versus United States constitutional government. Which do you want?

We Can't Win With 90 Per Cent

SINCE the war started Marion county has not failed in a single one of its numerous campaigns in behalf of the United Nations' cause. Now a break in that fine record is threatened—a record that has given the community justifiable cause for a feeling of patriotic pride. We are short of our goal in one of the most important efforts put forth up to this time—the 1944 Red Cross War Fund campaign.

Will failure mark the conclusion of this campaign and stand as the one defeat in Marion county's list of home front victories? We hope and believe that the final answer will be a happy and most emphatic "No."

The organization of workers who have performed such excellent and conscientious service in soliciting support of the public in this drive to back up our armed forces have done as much as they could in many hours of untiring and systematic effort and now report that the county lacks 10 per cent of its quota. Their plea is that the remaining 10 per cent, amounting to $5,419, be voluntarily subscribed, and it is a plea which should be answered by contributions reaching that amount and considerably more.

One of the earnest and patriotic leaders in the Red Cross campaign has said: "What would be the result if our Army at Anzio beachhead or Cassino in Italy, or on Bougainville and other Pacific islands should decide to be only 90 per cent efficient? The answer is, we would lose the war."

But they are not just 90 per cent efficient, and so we are winning the war. But to help them continue winning they must have the supplies provided by the Red Cross, and to save lives of the wounded they must continue receiving the blood plasma and other aid which come from this same Red Cross. Marion county is 10 per cent short of contributing its share to this vitally essential service to the men who are fighting the war for us—more than 4,000 of them from Marion county.

Who among us are responsible for this 10 per cent shortage? It would be interesting to get an accurate answer to this question, but after all that is relatively unimportant. The answer rests with each person and his conscience. This is no time for ferreting out delinquents and making personal comparisons and accusations. The all-important purpose at this time is to raise that 10 per cent and more, so this county—our home county—may be on record as having done its full duty in supporting the Red Cross in its great and glorious ministrations to our fighting forces, a service which includes the saving of many thousands of lives, some of which may be the lives of boys from this community.

In order that Marion county may be certain to do this, all who have made contributions have been asked to give more if their means will permit. Most of them are able to do so and doubtless will, without holding back because they know of someone else who didn't give anything. Those whose concern is for a common cause do not permit their deeds and generosity to be influenced or restricted by the selfishness of others.

But, needless to say, those who have given nothing are urged to join the ranks of contributors without delay. We believe there are many of these who will want to have their names on the roll of citizens who are helping the home front back up the boys at the battlefront. Not all of these, by any means, have failed to give because of unwillingness. Some possibly have been missed by solicitors, others have merely been forgetful. Contributions from any and all are needed and most certainly will be gratefully received.

High and Dry

IT IS impossible to grasp all the implications of a statement by leading economists that classic Communism has been abandoned in their country as practice and now is being supplanted as popular credo by new doctrines and textbooks. Their statement, which appears in a Russian economic journal, has been translated into English and reported in this country by The New York Times.

Apparently reflecting official Soviet policy in economic theory and practice, it leaves the classic Communists high and dry with nothing to cling to but Marx and Engels. It says, in effect, that Russia has learned by trial and error that the goals of socialism cannot be approached by theory; they have been approached, however, by practices which now are to become, ex post facto, the new theories of the Soviet Union.

The practices are described as those of capitalism; they present no irreconcilable conflicts with the systems of the United States and Great Britain, though they are carried on under the aegis of a regime which once encouraged contempt for those systems. The statement amounts to a confession of error and a redecoration of principles. While there is no way of knowing how authoritative it may prove to be, it confirms in large part the circumstantial evidence that has been accumulating over a period of years that the theories of Karl Marx were binding only on persons outside Russia who, without any experience in putting them into practice, had long since lost touch with the evolution of Soviet economics under Joseph Stalin.

News Behind the News

Diplomatic News from Moscow, London and Washington Is Big Guessing Game.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 6—The diplomatic news from Moscow, Washington and London is running like a game of darts in the dark.

A few ear-grazings, near misses, and an occasional hit in the pants have been recorded, but no one, not even the highest American officials, profess to know exactly what is going on or even what it means.

Moscow announcement of the new Sakhalin agreement with Japan was accompanied by happy unofficial commentating here suggesting Moscow was smiling our way.

It is our custom, apparently, to interpret gladly the seemingly friendly Stalin steps, than to act pained at unfavorable developments such as the Chinese-Mongolian agitation by Moscow—but always to keep complete silence officially for supposed fear of lessening the Red war effort.

No Official U. S. Word

Not a word has been said officially by our state department concerning any of these or accumulating similar incidents. In fact, State Secretary Hull went before congress recently to subdue in advance any rising discussion of Russian developments (believing apparently all important settlements must await the war's end). So far, these tactics have had no noticeable effect upon Stalin, one way or the other.

The happy interpretation of the Sakhalin agreement by commentators might as well have been written in the air with water for ink. No text was announced either by Moscow or Tokyo.

All the public has, officially, or anyone else for that matter, is a brief communique, our popular interpretations are wholly dependent upon editorials in Pravda, and Tokyo and Moscow radio propaganda.

Superficial Conclusions

Only superficial conclusions can be drawn from such inadequate evidence. If you want these, I can only reasonably report the agreement represents a strong psychological blow to Japanese prestige, but apparently amounts to little from the practical standpoint of coal, oil, and fishing.

Russia, it seems, has taken advantage of Japanese war fears (that we will get Red bombing bases, that Stalin might declare war, that victory for Japan is now obviously hopeless)—in order to win back from Tokyo what Russia lost in the Russo-Japanese war.

Here, Stalin also is attempting a friendly post-war policy toward Japan, promising delivery of substantial amounts of oil annually after the war (Germany or the Pacific), the first of the United Nations to act in this respect toward the axis.

As far as Sakhalin coal and oil are concerned, the Tokyo radio propaganda may well be nearly correct in claiming oil production dropped to 16,000 tons there last year from a peak of 190,000 tons in 1933; coal dropped to 5,000 tons from 24,000 tons.

No one has any figures here, but the experts believe both oil and coal production has fallen. Anyway, the still withdrawable amount of oil the Japs have stored there cannot be estimated, although the practical war effect of the deal on us depends on this.

Fishing Rights

Pravda editorials were worded as if fishing concessions might have been terminated, but only the northern Sakhalin water agreements (nearest Alaska and most important to us) were terminated, while other fishing concessions to Japan were extended.

The fact that Stalin chose almost immediately to pick a public dispute with China over the always touchy Mongolian problem, using a doubtful incident now nearly six months old, suggests this step may have been an unannounced part of the Sakhalin agreement, verbal if not written.

Previous Soviet actions against China on the Mongolian problem came after agitation in the Jap press. The ineffective Stalin complaint to China, therefore, may serve to appease Jap prestige at home, wounded by the Sakhalin settlement.

One View of Developments

Only commonsense over all judgment possible has been rendered by the resigned Soviet government metals purchaser here, Victor Kravchenko, protesting the whole current diplomatic line of the Kremlin.

He calls it "double-faced political maneuvers," charging Stalin has not dropped Communist world leadership aims, or the Comintern, but has merely switched tactics to fool the world, and is already preparing his people "for the next war." He calls for the four freedoms for Russia.

Few officials here know Kravchenko personally. He was an authentic lend-lease representative of Moscow, but did not appear frequently in conference with our officials.

Today and Tomorrow

Difficulties of Conducting National Election in Wartime Analyzed.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

TO HOLD a national election in wartime is to put the public spirit of the politicians and the people to a severe test. Yet in Great Britain, where elections can be postponed, there are accumulating signs that there are serious disadvantages in not having an election, difficult as it is to consult the people when they are at war.

A government which lacks a fresh mandate from the people has its difficulties, too.

In this country of course, the test cannot be evaded even if it were desirable to do so. The best way to meet it, then, is to become fully aware of the risks of the election, and by that awareness to let the over-riding common sense of the nation reduce the risks to a minimum.

The controversy over the soldiers' vote has disclosed one of the principal risks of a wartime election. It is that the next administration may not have a dependable mandate. This risk exists, of course, under the measure which congress adopted. It would also have existed, however, under the bill which the President favored. It is inherent in the fact of there being a war, and no legislation could remove it.

As matters stand now under the congressional law, it is in the highest degree unlikely that most of the qualified voters in the armed forces will in fact vote. It is also unlikely that great numbers of war workers who have migrated will be able to vote.

Effect of War on Vote

If these predictions are correct, the character of the electorate will be radically different from what it would be in peace time. The proportion of elderly voters and of women voters will be above normal, the proportion of active younger men below normal. The electorate will not only be smaller, which might not matter, but it will tend to be unrepresentative, which does matter.

The federal ballot, for which the President's supporters contended, might have cured this statistical abnormality. But it would have introduced an abnormality of its own. It is that several million young men who are stationed abroad, who are separated from their fellow citizens, who cannot really hear the issues debated, would have cast a powerful, perhaps the deciding vote. That, too, in a somewhat less obvious way, perhaps, but just as fundamentally, is not truly representative government.

There are countries, France, for example, which prohibits voting by soldiers on the ground that when a man is under military orders he cannot perform the function of a citizen; and that democracy must protect itself against letting the army get into politics, and against letting politics get into the army.

The American tradition does not go that far. But the same principle is involved in our feeling that active soldiers should not be active in politics.

National Dilemma

The upshot of all this is that the nation is in a dilemma. It cannot be resolved. It can be made less acute by realizing that it exists.

If we assume, as almost all seasoned observers do, that the soldiers and war workers who will not vote would probably vote predominantly for the Democratic party, then the Republican party needs to take that fact very much to heart. Its candidate must be a man who remembers the vote that is not being cast, and has the imagination and foresight to take a line of policy which this vote would find acceptable.

If he does not, he will be in grave trouble at the very next election, open to the reproach that his title to the office is not morally altogether sound. A reactionary Republican might be in very hot water indeed by 1946.

On the other hand, if the President really decided to run again, and is re-elected, he, too, must realize that the country would never have considered assenting to a fourth term but for the war. So if the war ends in the early part of his fourth term, he will be in the akward position of a president who remains in office long after the only reason for keeping him in office has disappeared. That will not be a very happy situation to be in.

The difficulties are apparently insoluble. That is why it is so important to dwell upon them. It may be, it is not at all impossible, that this is a situation when the wisdom of the people, challenged by the difficulties and the risks, will order things differently than we now imagine. The people have a way at times of managing such things as this better than the political speculators foresee.

They might conclude, for example, in effect to ignore the election and not to have a change. Or equally they might conclude that a change is so necessary that they will not put up a bitter fight about it.

Big Three of Taxation

Cigaret Levy Again Shows Stability.

THE federal government fared better than the states if the revenue picture of the last two calendar years is viewed exclusively in terms of the three major excise taxes on cigarets, gasoline and alcoholic beverages, levied at both levels of government.

The three taxes yielded the federal goernment $2,510,000,000 in 1943 compared with $2,340,000,000 in 1942, an increase of 7.5 per cent. The states' yield from these sources was $1,180,000,000 in 1943 compared with $1,550,000,000 in 1942, a decline in collections of 23.9 per cent.

A report by the Federation of Tax Administrators, based on federal tax collection figures compiled by the bureau of internal revenue, on collections of state excise taxes on alcoholic beverages, and on estimated profits of state liquor monopoly systems showed that when individual taxes were considered in terms of total revenue for both levels of government, only the cigaret tax succeeded in bringing in more money in 1943 than in 1942. This was the result largely of a rise in federal rates, the addition in 1943 of Delaware, Florida and New Mexico to the list of states taxing tobacco and a few changes in state rates.

The states and the federal government both received less income from their gasoline taxes in 1943, compared with 1942, and in about the same proportion. In 1943 the federal government received $265,000,000 from its gasoline tax, a decrease of 21.2 per cent from the 1942 total of $337,000,000. State gasoline tax revenues fell 18.9 per cent from $894,000,000 in 1942 to $726,000,000 in 1943.

The federal tax on cigarets yielded $787,000,000 in 1942 and $904,000,000 in 1943, a 14.9 per cent increase; the states received $130,000,000 in 1942 and $150,000,000 in 1943, representing a slightly larger increase of 15.2 per cent. It should be noted, the federation said, that the reputation cigaret taxes have for withstanding depressing factors—such as the increasing use of tax-free tobacco by the armed forces—is again upheld by these figures, and it is likely that revenues from this source will continue to hold their own as long as consumer income is on the rise.

High federal tax rates on alcoholic beverages, which went into effect in November, 1942, largely account for the increase in federal revenues from $1,220,000,000 in 1942 to $1,340,000,000 in 1943, an increase of 10.6 per cent. Though 10 states made substantial rate increases, the states as a whole suffered a 42.1 per cent loss of revenues, their collections from alcoholic beverage taxes totaling $303,000,000 for 1943 against collections totaling $524,000,000 in 1942.

Nodding Acquaintances

By Truman Twill

When you are not sure who, what, where when, why, or how long, you have a nodding acquaintance.

There is much to be said for nodding acquaintances, but nothing to be said to them because then they would become speaking acquaintances and the next thing you know would be borrowing pennies for parking meters

A nodding acquaintance asks nothing but to be nodded to when convenient. No loitering on curbs on windy days for uncomfortable conversations, no arguments about politics, no aimless speculation on the strategy for winning the war—just a nod, or a finger touched to the hat brim, in the case of a lady.

No embarrassments about names, no details about personal and business connections, no fumbling over introductions and no conversational balls to bat back and forth over the net of conventionality—not with nodding acquaintances. There is not even the necessity of nodding, because there is no fear of being accused of failing to observe the proprieties.

A wave of the hand, or a glittering display of bridgework will do in place of the nod, if the spirit moves. On special occasions, such as nice days, it is even possible to observe it is a nice day, with no possibility of complications, no impertinent questions, no need to apologize for an unshaven appearance or a conspicuous head cold.

Anyone with a limber neck and a good nod can build up a nodding acquaintance of large proportions. Anyone nodded to often enough will nod back and think nothing of it, whereas an attempt to open a conversation might lead in the case of ladies, to a call for the police and the complaint, "This character tried to get fresh with me, officer."

It is possible in this way to imagine you are a man-about-town, on friendly terms with dozens and hundreds of citizens of all walks of life—people who would give you the shirt off their backs if you asked them. And they figure you would ask them, which is they, too, are satisfied to continue indefinitely as nodding acquaintances.

Rich and poor, ugly and handsome, animal, vegetable or mineral, men and women, children and old codgers, down-and-outers, up-and-comers—you wonder who they all are, but it doesn't matter because they wonder the same thing about you and if either of you found out that would be the end of a beautiful nodding acquaintance.

So They Say—

The greatest danger of an inflationary boom will be after the fighting stops. There will be a tendency on the part of the average citizen to buy the things he couldn't get before and a violent rise in prices may result.—William I. Myers, New York State college of agriculture dean.

The Germans withhold information from their soldiers. We take the men into our confidence about what we are trying to do.—Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery.

When a man hath taken a new wife he shall not go out to war, neither shall he be charged with a business; but he shall be free at home one year and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken.—Chaplain's plea—from Deuteronomy—for leave for three officers overseas 18 months after being married less than six months.

Plentiful Supply of Gas Substitute Readily Available

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

CLEVELAND, April 6 — The United States has waiting around the corner, almost ready-made, a substitute for gasoline potentially twice as plentiful annually as the gasoline used in America in 1941.

The substitute is Methane, or marsh gas, and its sources are natural gas, petroleum, coal and garbage. Methane is a byproduct of refining coal, of coal processing and sewage disposal and can be made easily from natural gas.

In a report to the American Chemical society yesterday, Dr. [illegible] Egloff and Mary Alexander of the Universal Oil Products Co., Chicago, declared Methane readily can be prepared to serve as a gasoline substitute. Even if petroleum should dwindle there will still remain from other sources a large amount of Methane gas. Further, Dr. Egloff said, Methane can be supplemented by other gases to run cars, as is being done in Europe and other parts of the world.

There are half a dozen gases used for running autos, and 25,000 American truck and buses, mostly on the Pacific coast, are already using one or another of them. The containers or tanks for gas fuel are, at present, heavy and cumbersome. This, Dr. Egloff asserted, is not a serious handicap for trucks and buses, but before gas could be used on passenger cars small, stout tanks would have to be developed to hold the highly compressed gases.

There are, he added, about 140,000 vehicles running on Methane gas in Europe, largely in Germany. Methane gas would reduce cost of lubrication and repairs because crankcase oil is not diluted, and there is practically no carbon deposit, Dr. Egloff stated.

BURTON WARNS G.O.P. TO HOLD CONFIDENCE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 6—The Republican party "can lose the election unless it justifies the confidence of the people," Sen. Harold H. Burton (R) of Cleveland declared yesterday in proposing a four-point program to stimulate public faith in the party's ability "to run the war better" and to effect a lasting peace.

"People are not going to vote on pure prejudice," Burton said in an interview. "The present administration is handicapped by being in office too long, by its inability to cure its mistakes and to drop incompetents. The Republicans must show they can run the war better and create better unity behind the armed forces."

The Ohio senator offered the following program:

"In international policy we should follow the program embraced in the senate's resolution calling for united support of the war and post war collaboration and support of the Moscow agreement.

"We should advocate bringing together the representatives of the United Nations, large and small, to develop greater unity among them in support of the war, post-war stability and a procedure for reaching regional and world-wide political stability.

"We should urge uniting industry, labor, agriculture and government now in a program covering in detail the process of reconversion of private industry to a peacetime volume of production and national income substantially greater than before the war. It is only in this way we can pay our taxes, carry our debt and avert unemployment.

"The party should plan for a gradual release of government wartime controls and for application of a tax program to definitely encourage use of private capital in increased production of known or new articles."

CIDATE FOR GOVERNOR ES TALK IN MARION

W. Huffman on Program of Democratic Club.

W. Huffman of Colum- didate for the Demo- mination for governor, at a meeting of the Marion Democratic club at Demo- adquarters here Monday n Dutton, candidate for mocratic state representa- nation in Marion county, spoke also and other county candidates were introduced. William Roberts, president, was in charge.

Mr. Huffman said, "we are entering the most important campaign in American history. The war must be waged to a successful conclusion in the immediate future and necessary steps must be taken to insure that we do not lose the Peace.

"Ohio has an important part to play in that scene. First of all, patriotic duty requires that this great state cooperate fully with the federal government in our war effort.

"Ohio is engaged in large war production and the end of the struggle means that she will be struck by a withering blight of unemployment unless prompt and proper steps are taken to avoid it. In the post-war activities of the state special emphasis will have to be placed on the reemployment and rehabilitation of returning soldiers. New hospitals should be built and soldiers' and sailors' homes expanded.

"Further educational opportunities, through the government working hand in hand with universities and colleges must be offered to the more than 200,000 students who have had their courses interrupted by the call of duty."

EASTER BROADCAST

The Most Reverend and Right Honorable Cyril Forster Garbett, D. D., archbishop of York, primate of England and metropolitan, will broadcast "Easter Greetings" over a national broadcasting system Saturday from 6:45 p. m. to 7. He will be introduced by Henry A. Wallace, vice president of the United States. The broadcast will be made over the system usually carrying the Religion and the News broadcast.

Seek Way To Strengthen Badoglio Government

By The Associated Press

NAPLES April 6—Leaders of six anti-Fascist political parties sought a formula today for their entrance into a coalition government proposed by the Communists to strengthen Premier Marshal Badoglio's hand for a greater Italian war effort against the Germans.

The way was cleared in part last night by the announcement that King Vittorio Emanuele was ready to retire—without abdicating the throne—and designate his son, Crown Prince Umberto, as his deputy.

Umberto, Prince of Piedmont, confirmed the king's readiness to surrender his powers in an interview with The Associated Press.

British Fuel Minister Hits War-Time Strikes

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 6—Fuel Minister Gwilym Lloyd George told the House of Commons today that strike action in time of war cannot be justified" and government moves indicated Britain was fashioning a "big stick" to end widespread stoppages in the mining and ship-building industries.

As the U. S. army lent a hand to speed mining operations in the Northumberland coal fields, Lloyd George declared the coal crisis is the worst since 1926 and declared the "government cannot stand aside and allow collective bargaining or the machinery of councils and arbitration in the coal industry to be weakened or destroyed."

At the same time authorities stated two huge mechanical excavators in one Northumberland pit and [illegible] they were put to work at once [illegible] with approval of the fuel ministry.

Lloyd George announced that 80 per cent of the Yorkshire pits now were [illegible] but said the strike there has cost 1,000,000 tons of coal.

ARMY HELPS PROVIDE BOOKS

[illegible]ranges To Have Millions Printed for Distribution to Fighting Men.

By International News Service

WASHINGTON — Unique [illegible] armies in history, the American army carries books, magazines and newspapers as part of its fighting equipment.

So [illegible] is reading matter [illegible]-builder, that requests [illegible] from the command[illegible] of an overseas theater [illegible] to the Army Library Service:

"Request 20 tons magazines and newspapers to be furnished this command each month."

Demand Is Enormous

As the army grew to its present mammoth proportions, the demand [illegible] long ago outstripped the voluntary contributions, publishers' donations and army purchases of pocket size reprints.

In consequence, Uncle Sam has embarked on one of the largest publishing ventures since the invention of printing.

The project of special editions for the armed services took shape at the suggestion of the Council on Books in Wartime, a nonprofit organization of publishers, booksellers and librarians.

The Council, with the full cooperation of the publishing industry, is now publishing for the army thirty million books a year—30 titles a month, 50,000 copies of each title—for free distribution to the troops.

New Format

The books are entirely new in format. They are printed in two sizes, one 5½x3⅞ inches, and the larger, 6½x4½. By printing two columns to a page, a booklet half the size of a digest magazine can carry the complete, unabridged text of a full length novel.

Armed services editions of current best sellers like "So Little Time" cost the Army approximately 7½ cents a copy. One cent is divided between the author and the publisher, while the remainder covers all publication costs.

The Council makes all title selections subject to the approval of the Army Library Service. It also handles all details of negotiation with publishers and authors, and of printing and publication.

In overseas theaters and bases the books are distributed by Special Services officers to all troops within the command, including those stationed in the fighting zones, in outposts and hospitals.

U. S. Distribution Limited

Distribution in the United States is limited to stations where established army libraries are not accessible.

The books are at present shipped to overseas theaters along with other supplies, but it is the hopes of the Army Library Service that they may eventually be carried by the army mail service to reach the men more quickly. A set of 30 books weigh only six and a half pounds.

Highly expandable, passed eagerly along from hand to hand, the armed service editions fill the men's hunger for information, recreation and momentary escape from the harsh realities of war into the world of the imagination.

The titles are chosen with the fact in mind that the average intelligence level of the army in this war is equal to that of a third year high school student.

While, therefore, the ever-popular detectives stories and westerns appear among the 150 titles issued thus far, the lists also include such diverse critically applauded best sellers as "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," Ernie Pyle's "Here Is Your War," the informative "Report from Tokyo" by ex-Ambassador Joseph G. Grew, and "Moscow's Dateline" by newsman Henry Cassidy.

Modern classics include Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath" poems by Robert Frost, stories by Stephen Vincent Benet, W. Somerset Maugham's "Moon and Sixpence." There are also old friends like Twain's "Tom Sawyer" and Jack London's "Sea Wolf."

The Army Library Service is fully aware of the possible postwar repercussions of this program on the American publishing industry, which has always been in the luxury class.

Books, they point out, are being made available to the widest public they have yet found in the United States. To millions of American boys books will no longer be an item reserved for musty library shelves, for high-priced bookshops or for painstaking high school themes.

5,500 PLANT WORKERS SEE WAR PICTURE

Wounded Soldiers Speak at Each of 5 Showings.

Special showings of "War Department Report" and "Hi, Good Looking" arranged at the Palace theater by the Industrial Victory council, were seen by approximately 5,500 Marion industrial workers Wednesday. The theater was reserved for workers.

Workers also heard talks by Cpl. Lawrence Gredlein and Pfc. George F. Wendt, both of whom were wounded in overseas action and are now patients at Fletcher General hospital, Cambridge O.

The men emphasized the need for a continued flow of equipment to the fighting fronts. Various reasons were given for the pressing need. Among them were the fact that only 60 per cent of the equipment sent overseas arrives at the front's due to loss by sinking or by enemy fire before it reaches the front. It was pointed out that trucks and other large pieces make excellent artillery targets. Rough terrain in Italy and North Africa is especially hard on trucks and other vehicles, the men stated.

Both Cpl. Gredlein and Pfc. Wendt expressed thankfulness that they were fighting on foreign soil instead of on their own homeland. Even though it is more difficult for the fighters they said that the innocent people at home were thus saved from suffering.

Citing the need for everyone to do his part in war production, they compared absenteeism in industry to "gold bricking" in the army. Absenteeism only makes more work for someone else, they explained. The men appeared five times yesterday at the theater and returned to Fletcher General hospital this morning.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ENGINE METAL TESTS CHANGED

Technician Tells Court-Martial Records Were Altered in Wright Plant.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 6—A pretty young laboratory technician testified today that reports on tensile strength failures in aluminum bars being tested for use in airplane engine cylinder-heads were erased and changed in the office of an official of the Wright Aeronautical Corp.

The witness in the fourth day of a courtmartial of three Army air force officers accused of neglect of duty and conspiracy in aircraft engine inspection at the plant was Mrs. Jeanne Miller.

"We took failures (bars which failed to test to specifications) to David Longeauville, our supervisor in the laboratory in his office, and the reports came back erased and changed to passing," she told the eleven-man court.

Mrs. Miller testified that Longeauville had told her to pass bars on tensile strength-tests if they were only slightly outside of specifications and spoke to her once because she had not done this.

Captain William E. Miller, no relation, assistant defense counsel, asked her if a bar which failed because of a flaw could be used for something besides cylinder heads and she replied that Longeauville had told her they could be.

Inspector Withdrawn

She said that although an Army civilian inspector was stationed in the laboratory when operations first started at the plant, he was withdrawn about a year later and then appeared only at intervals to "drop in and walk out."

Col. Park Holland, counsel for Lt. Col. Frank C. Greulich, one of the defendants, asked if she knew what the Army did about testing aluminum bars and she replied that she did not see the bars after they left the laboratory.

Mrs. Miller told Col. Charles M. Chapman, a member of the court that changes in her reports were "made over my signature."

Hubert Routt, an Army inspector who said he had gained part of his experience with engines by building racing cars, testified that defective pinions at one time held up 400 engines at the plant, for repairs.

He said Ray Clark, chief AAA inspector at Lockland had ordered them held up. Routt testified also along lines previously developed by the prosecution regarding master-rod bearings which the government contends were defective, lack of official rejection stamps, interference with efforts to reject parts and lack of copies of manuals for inspection.

Others on trial are Maj. Walter A. Ryan of Detroit, former AAF district inspector and Maj. William Bruckmann, Cincinnati brewer and former resident AAF representative at Lockland.

Paul J. Rohman of Indianapolis, an army inspector, who said that as a tool and die-maker he could pick up his toolbox and get another job "and another nickel anytime," produced in court a steel bolt in which he said a company inspection machine failed to detect a cut.

Rohman said he had cut half way through the bolt and soldered the gash so it could not be detected visually. A magnetic inspection device failed to show the "camouflage," he testified, and only one of several company inspectors to whom he submitted it, called it defective.

Takes Allison Position

Later, he declared Ray Clark showed him a letter saying, he said, his services were badly needed for a "new contract" at the Allison engine plant in Indianapolis. When he arrived there, Rohman asserted, he found the contract had been completed three months previously. However, on cross-examination by Maj. Edward Cavanagh, defense counsel, Rohman admitted he still was was working at Allison and "had plenty to do."

Another Indianian, John L. Cook of Rushville, formerly employed by Wright as a utility man, testified that in the spring of 1942, only one eighth of 20,000 employes had work to do; that much "faking was done" on work-sheets and that the reports were made to show "invented work or indirect labor."

With the three defendants barely mentioned in testimony thus far, the prosecution expected today to present more stories of alleged slip-shod inspection, falsification of records, and pressure on inspectors to pass defective parts.

Echoes of the Truman senate committee investigation at the plant, which criticized inspection practices, came before the court martial yesterday in testimony of William E. Stout, AAF inspector who wrote to the Truman committee and helped bring about its inquiry.

Stout asserted that Ray W. Clark, AAF Inspector-in-charge at the plant, threatened to "make it hot" for him unless he resigned, and that he subsequently was transferred to the packing department after he refused to pass a bad bearing.

BLAST

from the explosion scene. Glenvil, small village on the outskirts of the plant, was hard hit, with business houses there "practically collapsed," Marshal Wert Bruns said. There was no loss of life or serious injury to village residents.

Capt. Patterson, who said the cause of the blast was unknown, gave this report:

"The explosion occurred at 1.20 a. m., first in a railroad box car that was on a siding beside a cooling shed for bombs and mines. This box car was being loaded.

"After the explosion of the box car the cooling shed exploded. It was filled with mines and depth charges. The cooling shed, about 100 by 100 feet, is built of concrete, heavily barricaded. Three people in the shed survived, but they are quite badly hurt."

Lt. (JG) Charles F. Foster, officer in charge of the bomb and mine filling area, said he was looking out of a window at the time and saw the box car explode, followed by the cooling shed.

Capt. Patterson said a court of inquiry has been ordered by the commandant of the Ninth naval district.

Rocks 50-Mile Area

The blast rocked an area within a 50-mile radius of the depot.

In Hastings, about 14 miles northwest of the plant, the explosion shook houses and broke windows in many buildings, said Mayor Roy Carter.

Ambulances were dispatched to the depot and all roads between the plant and Hastings were ordered kept open.

Naval officials in Washington said the explosion was confined to one unit of the plant, the largest in Nebraska, embracing 48,000 acres.

"The entire sky was lighted up—it was like an earthquake," said Ellis Price, a taxicab driver.

Mayor Carter said windows in several business establishments in the downtown district were broken and that houses throughout the city of 18,000 were shaken by the explosion.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Decker of Glenvil said they were wakened by a small explosion and that when they went to the window a second and more intense blast knocked them off their feet. They were cut by flying glass and brought to a hospital for treatment.

SERIES OF NOON-DAY SERVICES CONCLUDED

Dr. Miller Speaks on the Theme, "God Is Love."

In the final noon-day Holy week service at the Marion theater today Dr. R. H. Miller of Manchester, Ind., spoke on the theme "God Is Love." Rev. E. H. Wierth gave the Scripture and prayer and J. B. Ellis led singing.

The speaker said, in part, "Those three words, 'God is love,' carry more meaning than any words which ever came from the lips of man. They account for the origin of this universe. They reveal the direction and purpose of history. They point to 'that one far-off, divine event toward which the whole creation moves.' They give hope to those who toil and suffer. The truth of these words will some day put an end to war and make mankind a harmonious, happy family. Don't you forget it. God is love, limitless, self-giving love.

"Love is the essence of every good action and attitude. Love will take difference forms, depending upon the circumstances in which it is placed. In the presence of danger love becomes courage; in the presence of human need, liberality; in the midst of abundance, love is temperance and self-control; in association with people, love takes the form of gracious conduct, good manners. And so on through the list of all the virtues. Love is the essence of them all. This is what Saint Paul means when he says, 'Love is the fulfilling of the law.'

"Men never can have too much zeal for love. The more the better. Let it increase forever. In their zeal for righteousness men have become hard and cruel. It was the so-called righteous who crucified Jesus. Many of the martyrs have been put to death by those who thought they were doing God service. These cruel fanatics were utterly devoted, but not to love. Devotion to love would have kept their virtues in balance, and it would have made them kind.

"Supreme love, as it is in God, can be conveyed to men in but one language. That language is the perfect life of Jesus, who, when he was suffering the worst that men could do to Him, prayed, 'Father, forgive them for they know not what they do.'"

Predicts Roosevelt Won't Seek 4th Term

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 6—Expressing doubt that President Roosevelt would seek a fourth-term, Senator Bailey (D-NC) today proposed a Byrd-Farley ticket for the Democrats.

Said Bailey:

"I seriously question whether President Roosevelt will seek a fourth term."

He suggested Senator Byrd (D-Va) and James A. Farley, former Democratic national chairman, "would make a fine ticket and the Democrats could win with them."

Meantime, Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) predicted Iowa's 20 delegates to the Democratic national convention would be pledged to support a fourth term nomination for President Roosevelt and would be instructed to renominate Vice President Henry A. Wallace.

Greek King To Help Form New Government

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 6—King George of Greece is preparing to leave for Cairo to take a direct hand in the crisis in his exiled government resulting from the resignation of Premier Emanuel Tsouderos, it was learned today.

An announcement from the government's information office said the king had accepted Tsouderos' resignation and had named former Navy Minister Sophocles Venizelos to succeed him.

There was no comment on a Cairo dispatch that Venizelos would not attempt to form a new government.

Eden's Resignation Will Bring Test for Higher Post

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

If Anthony Eden resigns the British foreign secretaryship to devote his whole time to government leadership in the house of commons, as is reported to be scheduled, it will put squarely to the test his qualifications as possible successor to the great Churchill as prime minister.

That will be the significance of the move if it eventuates. Many British prophets feel Churchill's historic task of leading his people through the valley of "blood, toil, tears and sweat," from defeat to glorious victory, is drawing to a close. He and the chiefs of the conservative party are said to feel that the comparatively youthful Eden—he is 46—is the man to shoulder the burden, and they're going to put him through the mill to find out.

Victory for Younger Group

One important side-light is that if and when Eden takes the helm it will at long last bring the so-called "young Conservatives" into power after decades of battling for a place in the sun. Churchill belongs to the old guard. So did a long string of predecessors.

Maybe it's wrong to call that a side-light. England, like the rest of the world, is on the verge of great changes, and coupled with those will be the post-war problems of reconstruction. It is a period when political adaptibility and correct perspective will be at a premium.

So far as foreign affairs are concerned, there's no reason to anticipate any material change. The foreign minister doesn't lay down Britain's foreign policy. He may propose some of it, but the prime minister is the last word.

Many London observers think Lord Cranborne, secretary of state for dominion affairs, will become foreign secretary if Eden quits the post. Eden and Cranborne think alike on foreign policies.

New Commons Leaders

Eden already is government leader in commons, but his foreign office duties require so much time that he hasn't been working very hard at his other job. Regular leadership in commons would put him on a hot spot, where he would either make or break himself in short order. It's one of the toughest assignments in British politics.

It's an interesting commentary that Churchill, whom England has followed through hell and high water in the war emergency, is himself too much of an individualist to be a successful government leader in commons in normal times. He's by nature a lone wolf, and but for that fact could have been prime minister a score of years ago. His colleagues always admired his genius, but writhed under the caustic tongue with which he like to lash them.

Eden should make a good leader. He inspires confidence, has a pleasing personality, and is possessed of considerable tact.

There's one other reason why Churchill requires strong leadership in commons. The house has been getting out of hand a bit of late—even his own Conservative party—and has been challenging the old maestro.

DEWEY

show publicly in any of the 276 convention delegate selection made.

While Dewey was top man in the party as of today, the question of what Willkie might do held the interest of Republican politicians, who speculated on these possible developments:

1. Willkie might plump for a Republican with liberal international views such as Stassen, giving that candidate's chances a boost.

2. He might return to the Democratic party, which he quit before 1940—might even support a fourth term for President Roosevelt in preference to aiding a Republican who did not see eye to eye with him on foreign affairs. (There was some conjecture Willkie might be invited to share the ticket with the President).

3. He might lead a new "Bull Moose" liberal movement.

4. Or, he might go along with the G. O. P. nominee, whoever that may be, continuing his appeals for a "one world" program to preserve future peace.

Supreme Court Again Affirms O'Neill's Election

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 6 — The Ohio supreme court for the second time yesterday affirmed the legality of Ralph W. O'Neill's election as mayor of Youngstown.

The tribunal refused to grant an appeal from a Mahoning county common pleas court decision that proceedings contesting the Democratic mayor's election by six votes had not been started within the time prescribed by law. The action was filed by Alice M. Cafaro and 25 others.

Some time ago the supreme court upheld a common pleas decision that O'Neill's opponent, Arthur H. Williams, Republican, lost his right to contest the election on the grounds of voting irregularities because he failed to sign the bill of complaint.

The court also announced the appointment of Albert H. Scharrer of Dayton and John L. Zimmerman, Jr., of Springfield, as members of the state bar examining committee for five-year terms.

Irey was reelected as secretary and club manager for a three year term, and Carroll W. Davidson was reelected treasurer for one year. Mr. Graves gave a short talk on lodge activities.

A family dinner for members and their families was announced for Wednesday night, April 19 and there will be entertainment following. The affair will be in charge of the entertainment committee, Charles Faurot, John Sloan and Lester Ireland. Bert Swope, governor, announced the initiation of a class of candidates Monday night, April 17. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"Praise the Lord
We Ain't Agoin' Fishin'"

Willie Wells was always fond of fishing. Now he writes from somewhere overseas:

"There's a song the fellers sing, goes: 'Praise the Lord, we ain't agoin' fishin'—and I guess it's so. But you know, Joe, sometimes I sure wish I were back fishing for trout in [illegible] Creek again."

And I guess that's the way all our soldiers feel. They're fighting a war—and they mean to fight it to a finish—till they can come home to the little pleasures that they've missed so much—the sweet feel of a trout rod . . . a pleasant glass of beer with friends . . . the smell of Mom's fresh baking from the kitchen . . .

From where I sit, we folks at home have an important obligation—to keep intact the little things that they look forward to... [illegible] publican party "has had its greatest resurgence."

Entered State As Test

"Therefore, I quite deliberately entered the Wisconsin primary to test whether the Republican voters of the state would support me and in the advocacy of every sacrifice and cost necessary to winning and shortening the war and in the advocacy of tangible, effective economic and political cooperation among the nations of the world for the preservation of the peace and the rebuilding of humanity."

The Wisconsin primary results, Willkie said, "is naturally disappointing and doubly so since the delegate who led the poll for delegates is known as one active in organizations such as the America First, opposed to the beliefs which I entertain." (In Milwaukee, Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, who led the field of delegates, denied affiliation with the America First committee).

Asserting "this country desperately needs new leadership," Willkie then announced his retirement from the race, adding:

"I earnestly hope that the Republican convention will nominate a candidate and write a platform which really represents the views which I have advocated and which I believe are shared by millions of Americans. I shall continue to work for these principles and policies for which I have fought during the last five years."

U. S. BOMBS KILL ALLIES AT CASSINO

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, April 6—Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker disclosed today a number of allied soldiers had been killed by bombs which accidentally fell far from the target during the great allied air assault on Cassino March 15.

This disclosure by the commander of the allied Mediterranean air forces came during a press conference in which he discussed many aspects of the bombing and declared that while the operation had failed to break German resistance it had "accomplished all that was expected of it by the air force commanders * * *"

Eaker indicated his belief that the outcome should not be construed as a reflecting on the potentialities of aerial bombardment, declaring frankly that air power has its recognized limitations and it was not to be expected such an attack could wipe out all resistance.

Some bombs which missed the target at Cassino fell wide of their mark because of a "mechanical failure," he said, investigation showing "the bombs had become dislodged from their racks and when the bomb doors were opened they became free."

Others which dropped at Venafro, far behind the front, killing a number of allied troops, were the result of a mistake in target identification, Eaker added.

Eaker emphasied his remarks should not be considered as a criticism of the ground forces or their commanders.

Eaker asserted the Cassino results confirmed earlier lessons which the air force had learned, rather than teaching any new lesson.

Predict MacArthur To Keep Command

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, April 6—Regardless of any future change in the status of the South Pacific area or alterations in its present command, it is reliably believed General Douglas MacArthur will continue in complete direction of southwest Pacific offensives, both operational and strategically.

Some question of MacArthur's position developed with disclosure by newspaper correspondents at South Pacific headquarters that Admiral William F. Halsey, in direct command there since August 1942, may soon be relieved of his command and assigned an important new post.

BIG FOUR TRAIN DERAILED

EATON, O., April 6 — Eleven cars of a Big Four freight train, nine of them coal-laden, left the track when the train split a switch at nearby Lewisburg shortly after 7 a. m. today. No one was injured. The train was enroute from Cincinnati to Van Wert.

It is estimated that industry loses the equivalent of 1,000,000 employes' work every day because of illness and injury.

TODAY IS ANNIVERSARY OF ENTRY INTO WORLD WAR I

Army Day Observed With 7 Million in Uniform.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 6—Lest you forget while reading about seven and a half million soldiers at war, this is Army day.

By resolution of congress in the peaceful late '20s, the anniversary of America's entry into World war I was set aside as a day on which to remember the army.

Today the parades and the trek of visitors to army posts are being omitted. There is neither time nor necessity for the parades. The American public knows about the Army. And so does the enemy—for today it is deployed around the world.

The Army expects to have five million men overseas before this year is out.

The Army is nearing its goal of 7,700,000.

Essentially the problem now is one of replacement.

REGAINS HEARING

WICHITA, Kas.—When Mrs. Maggie Hulvey went to work building bombers at the Boeing plant here, she asked for a job in the noisiest shop. Deaf since childhood, she soon noted the noisy staccato of rivet guns and the whine of air drills. Today, she has regained her hearing.

New Advisory Group To Aid Farm Agent

Representatives from each school in Marion county have been elected by district residents to serve on an advisory council which will work with Arthur H. Smith, county farm agent, in planning extension work in the county.

Meetings were held in the past two weeks at schools throughout the county to select representatives. A man and woman were chosen from each group.

Members listed by districts are: O. W. Augenstein and Mrs. C. A. Price, Martel; Earl Drake and Mrs. R. A. Behner, Agosta; LeRoy Anderson and Mrs. Ivah Owen, LaRue; Jay Howser and Mrs. L. E. Weir, Kirkpatrick; Robert Denzer and Mrs Marie Bender, Waldo; C. W. Baldinger and Mrs. Howard Mitchell, Claridon; Lowell Cates and Mrs. Ernest Wiley, Meeker; Dale Washburn and Mrs. Estella Roberts, Morral; R. T. Thew and Mrs. Paul Lill, Grand Prairie.

Although no date has been set for an organization meeting, plans will be formulated soon. The group will discuss plans regarding agriculture and educational extension work as it regards their districts and give suggestions to guide the farm agent in setting up his program. The council setup was made possible by a change in state law which shifted governing of local farmers' institutes to the hands of the people making use of the program.

BEECH EASTER SERVICE

An Easter sunrise service will be held at Salem Evangelical church at Beech Sunday at 6:30 a. m. A baptismal service will be conducted at the morning worship service at 10:30 and Rev. O. D. Myers will give an Easter message. Members are to present their Lenten offering boxes at the service.

Two Windfall Church Groups at Boger Home

Two societies of St. John's Lutheran church at Windfall met Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Boger of near Cardington.

The Better Christian Fellowship society was in charge of the president, Homer Ebert. A brief business meeting was followed by a study of the Apostle John presented by Rev. Eswine. The discussion was led by Mrs. Joe Miller. The Junior Mission Band met with Mrs. Ben Ebert as leader. There were 30 children in attendance who enjoyed the missionary stories presented by some of the group. They enjoyed singing choruses and hymns later in the evening. The climax of the evening for both groups was a shower in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Breece (Anna Geckle) of Ashley. They received many lovely gifts.

Beekeepers Hear Talk by County Farm Agent

Arthur H. Smith, county farm agent, spoke on "The Mission of the Beekeeper to the Farmer and the Soil" when the Marion County Beekeepers' association met Monday night at the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Smith emphasized the importance of legumes in fertilizing the soil and as used for high protein feed. The legumes are important for fertilizer because it is these plants which "fix" nitrogen in the soil. In other words, they take nitrogen and make it a part of the soil and as such it can nourish crops planted in other seasons on the same land.

Clover is a legume and Mr. Smith proved by reports of the Ohio Experiment station that honey bees pollinate the greater part of red clover blossoms thus raising yields from an average of one bushel per acre without bees to 12 bushels where there are a large number of bees.

Members were urged to keep as many bee colonies as they can profitably operate since farmers are making a special effort to raise legume seed this year. A pot-luck supper was served before the meeting.

Noah Webster was the first American advocate of phonetic spelling, and once proposed that "medicine" should be spelled "medicin."

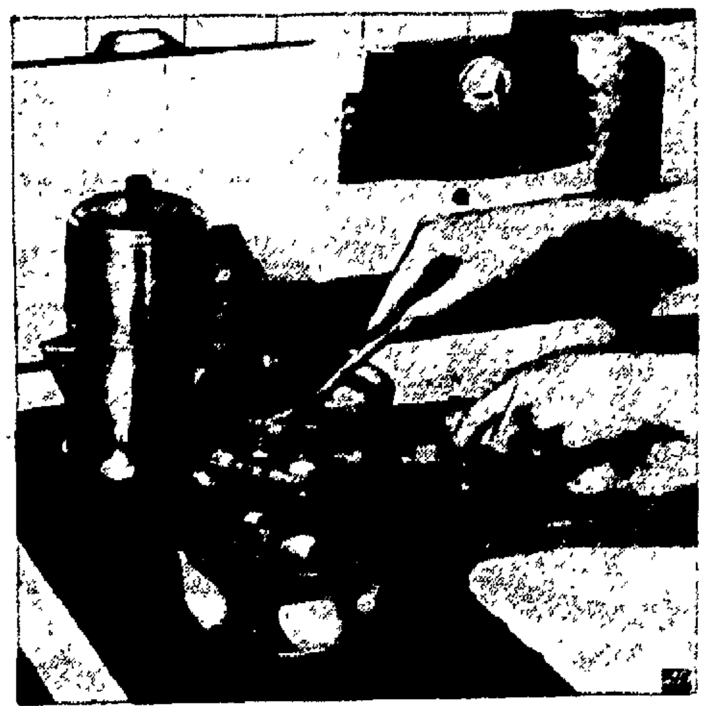
Ten-Minute Breakfast



By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Are you by any chance one of those many people who know that an adequate breakfast is important to health and efficiency and yet keep saying, "I haven't time to prepare a big breakfast"? Here's a little surprise for you. It doesn't take a lot of time.

Just in case you should happen to be one who doesn't even realize why a good breakfast is important, let's go into that for a minute first. Nutritionists agree that breakfast should include at least a fourth of the day's total intake of food. Persons whose breakfast consists of a cup of coffee would starve to death fast if they carried that principle through the rest of the day, wouldn't they? For a proper breakfast which will enable you to do twice as efficient a morning's work you should have fruit (preferably citrus), cereal with milk and sugar, eggs or bacon, bread in some form and a beverage. And so should your children—and your husband—and anybody else in your household.

Those are the basic foods which should be eaten. In some households they are conscientiously offered up in exactly the same form, day after day. This lack of imagination is likely to defeat the meal-planners course. Breakfasts can be as varied as any meal.

Though citrus fruits should appear most often on the breakfast menu, even they can be varied—sometimes orange, sometimes grapefruit, sometimes juice, sometimes whole. Once in a while change completely and serve berries or other fruits in season. Never serve the same cereal two days running. There are hundreds of different kinds and out of these, surely several your family will like. There are many ways to cook eggs—try them all. Toast will perhaps be the most usual form of breakfast bread, but whip up a double lot of muffins now and then, and serve them toasted at a second meal. Or have a "boughten" coffee cake or buns for a change.

And can you have all those good things in a hurry? You certainly can! Here's how!

Time-Saver Breakfast

Orange Juice, Hot Cooked Cereal, Milk, Sugar, Soft-Cooked Eggs, Cinnamon Raisin Buns, Butter or Margarine, Coffee.

BREAKFAST WORK PLAN

1. Put cold water in bottom of double boiler; put eggs into water and heat.
2. Meantime: measure water for oatmeal in top of double boiler; bring to rapid boil.
3. Measure quick-cooking oats; add with salt to boiling water in top of double boiler. Place over water in bottom of double boiler, which should be kept just below boiling. Cook oatmeal 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.
4. Meantime: measure water for coffee; bring to boil. Measure coffee into pot.
5. Turn on oven; heat cinnamon raisin buns.
6. Squeeze orange juice.
7. Pour boiling water over coffee in pot.
8. Remove eggs; spoon oatmeal into bowls. Breakfast has been prepared in 10 to 15 minutes.

Marion Take Note; Starlings Routed by Stuffed Owl

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The owl perched atop a fire escape on a downtown building doesn't give a hoot about the city fire department's troubles in trying to rout starlings which infest the downtown district.

For weeks firemen have tried devious methods to keep the starlings from swarming over the business district and roosting in one particular building.

Firemen tried to wash them out but their efforts were a washout; they put sticky substance on electric wires where the birds perched, and strung moth balls around the building. The starlings, however, took their punishment, refused to take the hints.

But the owl that doesn't give a hoot has solved the problem, at least temporarily. The owl looks wise, but it's the work of a taxidermist.

The starlings won't land on the building where the stuffed owl is erected.

Brig. Gen. Kreber Is Popular Officer of Ohio's Division

WITH THE 37TH DIVISION IN BOUGAINVILLE—Perhaps one of the best liked officers in the 37th is its divisional artillery commander, 47-year-old Brig. Gen. Leo M. Kreber of Columbus, O.

Since June of 1922 this 1918 graduate of the United States Military academy has been identified with the artillery of the Ohio National Guard.

As a first lieutenant he spent several months in Germany in 1920 as a member of the army of occupation and in this war so far he's been good enough to be awarded the Army's Legion of Merit and the Navy's Gold Star in lieu of a second Legion of Merit. These were symbolical of the work his artillery did in the New Georgia campaign and his performance of duty here as commander of all the island's artillery since the Army landed Nov. 8 of last year.

General Kreber resigned his regular army commission in 1922 to go into business with his father, the late F. W. Kreber and his brother, Raymond E. Kreber, who still operates the firm, Van Bolt-Kreber Electrotype company. During his early Army days he met and married Jessie May Bannon in Louisville, Ky., when he was stationed at nearby Camp Taylor.

He began his National Guard career as a member of the staff of the late Brig. Gen. Harold M. Bush, then commander of the 62nd field artillery brigade. Following that he was executive officer of the 134th field artillery regiment and then its commanding officer. He commanded the 136th field artillery regiment of 155-millimeter guns and before his induction with the 37th Oct. 15, 1940, was named divisional artillery commander.

Three days before his participation in the New Georgia campaign he received word that his father had died.

Mrs. Kreber lives at 290 East Dunedin road, Columbus, with the couple's two daughters, Jessie Welch and Catherine Latham, and a grandson, Robert J. Welch Jr. Major Welch is here on Bougainville as a member of an anti-aircraft regiment and Lieutenant Bud Latham is with the Army air forces in Panama.

General Kreber was born in Akron, O., but moved to Columbus with his parents at an early age. He attended Ohio State University for a year.

WAF Maps Plan To Put Floor Under Egg Price

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Marvin Jones, war food administrator, told a group of mid-western senators yesterday his agency is launching a plan to establish a 26-cent floor for ungraded, current-receipt eggs to bolster the market in distressed areas of the mid-west and south.

Instructions have gone to handlers at concentration points, he said, that support prices varying from 27 to 32 cents on carlots would be paid only when offers are accompanied by certificates that a minimum of 26 cents was paid the producers.

At a conference in the office of Senator Wherry (R-Neb.), Jones conceded that "a very bad situation" had developed in the egg market, but said the WFA was without facilities to make purchases at local levels and added that "we've got to do the best we can with the facilities at hand."

Granite once was a red-hot mass far below the earth's surface.

336 HORSES NOMINATED FOR MARION RACES IN JUNE

Leading U. S. Stables To Enter Harness Events Here.

A total of 336 horses have been nominated for the 12 stake events highlighting Marion's Little Grand Circuit harness racing meet, June 8-24, Race Secretary Frank M. Foster announced today.

Coming as it will immediately before the Grand Circuit program at Cleveland's North Randall track, the Marion meet will attract a majority of the nation's big name stables, trainers and drivers.

Feature event of the 12-race stake program promises to be the three-year-old trot in which a flock of Hambletonian nominees will clash in a preview to this year's $40,000 trotting classic. Nominated for the Marion race were Yankee Maid, owned by A. L. Derby of Wichita, Kan., and Eva's Boy, the Volomite-sired colt owned by Walter J. Michael of Bucyrus, and trained by Wayne "Curly" Smart of Delaware. Winter book makers rate the pair one-two to win the Hambletonian with the Kansan in the favorite role. More than half of the other 24 entrants are eligible to participate in the classic also.

From the standpoint of number of entries the most popular of the stake events were the 21 class pace and the two-year-old trot, both for untried stock. Forty-one horses were certified for each event. The 24 class trot and the two-year-old pace attracted 35 entries apiece. Twenty-seven were named in the three-year-old pace, 26 for the three-year-old trot and 25 for the 20 class pace.

Here's the complete list of entries:

CLEVELAND CATCHER CALLED FOR EXAM

By The Associated Press

LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 6—The Cleveland Indians' catching problem became more acute today after Russ Lyon received notice from his Georgia draft board to report for his pre-induction physical examination April 17.

Loss of the 203-pound recruit would leave receiving duties to two Wilkes-Barre youngsters, Jim McDonnell and Jim Devlin, until Buddy Rosar reports, or Coach George Susce is transferred to the active list. Lyon has asked to have the examination transferred to Indianapolis next Wednesday, the same day outfielder Cliff Mapes will learn whether he will be ball player or soldier.

A break in the weather was indicated for today raising the Indians' hope for a scheduled game with the Pittsburgh Pirates at Muncie, Ind. Big Mike Naymick and Ed Kleinman drew the hurling assignments.

Harry Gumbert, Cards' Pitcher, Set To Win 100th Game in '44

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 6—Harry Gumbert, towering hurler for the St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National league, is getting set to win his 100th major loop game.

The tall guy from Texas is the first of the big league pitchers to go the nine-inning route, and he did it impressively yesterday in holding the second team to six hits, and a single ninth-inning run.

Gumbert has won 98 games, and hopes to get over the century hump early in the season. Only seven pitchers now in the big leagues have broken the 100 mark.

Gumbert has proved a fine investment for the Cards, since 1941 when Branch Rickey traded "Fibber" Bill McGee to the Giants for him. Since then Gumbert has won 30 games and lost 15, and six of his wins were at the expense of the Giants, against two losses. McGee won two and lost nine in 1941 for the Giants, and hasn't been with 'em since.

Six of yesterday's nine exhibitions were snowed under, but most of the clubs hoped to see action today should the weather clear.

The high spots:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

St. Louis: General Mgr. Bill DeWitt said all Browns now in training have signed contracts, and Manager Luke Sewell grinned broadly over the 10-2 victory over Toledo.

Chicago: Coach Harold (Muddy) Ruel in charge today as Sox meet Cubs in French Lick exhibition. Thornton Lee, Bill Dietrich and Orval Grove to pitch.

Detroit: Paul Trout, who won 20 and lost 12 last year, finally has been nicked for a run, Rochester getting it yesterday. But it was the first marker yielded by Trout in 11 exhibition innings; pitched five against Roc., so everyone's satisfied.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pittsburgh: Holdout Vince Di Maggio still on fence as prexy Benswanger makes no move for confab on wage demands. Al Cuccurullo, southpaw rookie, is in 4-F after exam.

Philadelphia: Manager Fred Fitzsimmons picks Ken Raffensberger to pitch five frames and Moose Fralick four, against Boston Red Sox today.

New York: Giants, snowbound, stayed in hotel lobby yesterday but 30 teen-age kids arrived for tryout camp. Steve Filipowicz, former Fordham grid ace, signed contract, and Ernie Lombardi, catcher, arrived from coast.

Brooklyn: Manager Leo Durocher, 38, intimated he might start season at second base, despite "acorns" in right elbow region.

MULTITUDINOUS are the words of prayer which will reach heavenward this Easter. Each of us will say a prayer apart—for the safety of a loved one in battle—for the return of a son, or brother, or husband now in an enemy's prison camp—for the healing of a wounded dear one. Yet together, we shall say one prayer for lasting peace following the United Nations' complete Victory. And we shall find our greatest faith—particularly those of us whom the war has already bereft—in recalling His resurrection, for whom this day is reborn each year!

TIPS M'CARTHY TO LOOK AT PITCHERS FOR CENTER FIELDER

Al Lyons, Rookie Hurler, Seen as Replacement for Johnny Lindell.

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, April 6—If Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees is real hard up for a replacement for Johnny Lindell, [illegible] find that gentleman where he found his navy-bound center fielder—right on his own pitching staff.

Al Lyons, a rookie right-hander who won 4 and lost 6 for Kansas City last year, he has a [illegible] who can do a better [illegible] job in the outer gardens [illegible] it is conceivable he might follow in Lindell's footsteps.

When Lyons broke into baseball in Los Angeles, he was a pitcher but due to an arm injury he turned to outfielder when he joined the Yankee chain at Joplin, Mo. In 1941 he hit .304 in the class C Western association, drove in 83 runs, hit 32 doubles, 10 triples and 10 homers.

A year in Binghamton, N. Y., where he led the Eastern league in assists with 34 as a right fielder but slumped off to a .249 hitting preceded last year's adventures in Kansas City. He started as a fielder but went back to pitching for Manager Johnny Neun after showing one of the best throwing arms in baseball and power-hitting ability, but too much of a tendency toward serious slumps at the plate.

Lindell came to the Yanks as a pitcher but was made over into a fielder when McCarthy was impressed by his size and hitting ability, and unimpressed by his hurling.

Lindell took his draft physical yesterday and passed a preliminary test. The doctors are giving him another once over and will pass him for the Navy if X-ray tests prove that the will not be troubled by an old head injury.

Lyons just joined the club last week-end after a winter of work in a Kansas City war plant.

Deacon Lend-Leases Two Hurlers to AA Indians

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., April 6—Struggling against weather and the manpower situation in his efforts to get the Cincinnati Reds in shape, Bill McKechnie figured on lend-leasing Bucky Walters and Elmer Riddle to the Indianapolis Indians for a practice game between the teams today.

Manager Donie Bush of the Indians is short on pitchers. Hence, Cincinnati's Deacon had to either supply some or pass up a chance to give his rookies another once-over. Bad weather has so interrupted spring training that only five times since the Reds assembled here March 15 has McKechnie been able to get his boys outdoors.

NEW YORK, April 6 — Spring training note: Weather conditions are excellent for development of the players' snow-shoveling muscles....Since Jan. 1, in New York alone, 29 boxers have been discharged from the armed forces, mostly for trick knees and ear troubles....Sammy Baugh, who has been devoting his spare time to putting the Rotan, Tex., High school football team through spring practice, claims he has been getting a kick from the experience. And no doubt some of the kids have been getting a kick, too, and probably a pass....Hugh James Reilly, who picked the winners of Canada's largest daily double—nearly $8,500 at Thorncliffe in 1932—died last Monday....Baseball's "Little Red Book" will be green this season—just like the players.

STOCK BUYING STILL LAGGING

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 6 — Buying power again centered on selected rails and specialties in today's stock market while many pivotals struggled unsuccessfully for a real recovery foothold.

Wall Street was bullish over politics, particularly the result of the Wisconsin primary, but tomorrow's Good Friday holiday, with only a short session intervening Saturday, helped check investment bidding to a considerable extent on the idea war developments in the meantime might have market repercussions.

Prices steadied after a mixed opening. Gainers of fractions to a point or so were in the majority near the fourth hour.

Upward movers included Chrysler, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, U. S. Gypsum, Standard Oil (NJ) and U. S. Steel. Backward were Douglas Aircraft, Dow Chemical, Consolidated Edison and Woolworth.

SELLING DEVELOPS ON MARKET REPORTS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 6—Favorable weather for the development of the winter wheat crop and reports that efforts will be made to import 20,000,000 bushels of Canadian oats by May 15, combined to create a little selling in grain futures today. Declines were confined to minor fractions in a quiet trade.

The market lacked buying orders, which traders attributed to the fact that the board will be closed tomorrow, Good Friday, with only the short Saturday session intervening before the week-end. Local traders were not inclined to make new commitments in view of the possibility of important European war and political developments.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I BRACED myself at this indirect attack, for such I knew it was. Shumway's intended blackmail victims had eluded him—or so he thought, evidently believing my story of my guests deciding to take the three-thirty train to New York from Riverhead instead of the six-five from Bridgehampton. So, not knowing when he might see them again, he was trying to drag me into his net.

Answers

"I really don't understand you, Mr. Shumway," I said. "I suppose you mean to ask if I have any theory as to the reason for the guardsmen on the roads and on the beach. It surely should be obvious to you, to me, and to everybody else that they are hunting for somebody or for something. Farther than that, I have no possible ideas."

He laughed unpleasantly.

"You're a cool one, all right," he said. "But look here. You and I both know something those guardsmen don't know, and would give a good deal to find out."

He waited for me to answer, and when I did not speak, went on, and I say that my "silent treatment" was having its effect. He was not nearly so cocksure in his manner as he had been.

"We know," he said, "that the two men who came to your house were in that shack on the beach this morning. They were dripping wet, and they were willing to pay me twenty-five dollars and no questions asked to take them to your house.

"They expected to go to New York tonight," he went on, "but they evidently got the wind up and decided to get away sooner.

Worth Money

"Now my point is this," he finished. "You know, as well as I do, that nobody who holds out information on anything like this is a ac-cess-ry,"—he stumbled over the world—"after the fact. I haven't said anything so far, but if I do keep quiet, it ought to be worth quite a bit of money, don't you think?"

"I must think about that," I said composedly, "until I reach my own house. If you'll kindly finish driving me there, I will pay you for this ride, and give you the answer to your question."

His spirits rose perceptibly, and there was a threatening note in his voice as he answered me:

"You'd better do some tall quick think the rest of the way," he said, and neither of us spoke until he drew the car up to the side porch.

I can move swiftly when I have to, and I was on the ground almost as quickly as the car stopped.

Hurries Inside

"I find that I have left some of my money in the house," I said. "Just wait here, please, until I get it."

I skimmed up the walk to the door, rapped on the glass sharply, conscious that Shumway was descending from the car and fearful that he meant to follow me to the door.

But Katie appeared promptly, and undid the door. I slid inside, the upper glassed half with its iron bars affording protection to anyone inside.

I saw that Shumway was coming up the walk, and I tossed a low command over my shoulder to Katie.

"Go into the kitchen, Katie, and shut the door. Do not come out unless I call for you, no matter what you hear. But if I call, come running!"

She vanished just as Shumway came up to the door. He was scowling, and he put his hand on the door knob and tried it.

Blusters

"What's the meaning of this?" he blustered. "Anybody'd think I was a stage robber or something."

I looked at him steadily.

"I wouldn't insult a stage robber with that comparison, Mr. Shumway," I said. "First, here is the money I promised you for this trip. Please count it, and see if the amount is correct."

I pushed the bills through the iron bars, and he counted it sullenly.

"Okay," he said, "but what about the other deal?"

"I'll give you my answer in a second," I said, "but first I want to give you a warning."

I lowered my voice almost to a whisper, and looked him steadily in the eyes.

"Did you ever, Mr. Shumway, hear the word 'blackmail?'" I asked coolly.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Value of Potatoes

I see by the papers, as Mr. Dooley, the favorite columnist of the period of another war—the little, old Spanish-American war—used to say, I see by the papers that meat is going to be scarce and food restrictions are going to pinch in other directions, but we still are going to have plenty of Irish potatoes.

Well, it so happens that according to dietary science that is all right. Didn't the Irish live entirely and exclusively on the potato for a long time? Hush, child, don't ask me that—I don't know what the Irish did before they discovered America. But tradition says they did.

First as to the total nutritional value of the potato. How much energy do you get from it? An average medium-sized potato weighs half a pound. Potatoes furnish 310 calories a pound. So if you eat a potato cake at breakfast, a large potato at lunch, some potato soup and a small potato at dinner you will make up more than half the total day's caloric requirement of the National Research Council for a person weighing 150 pounds. You may say this will get monotonous, but it keeps you from starvation and starvation gets monotonous, too.

Protein is the essential food ingredient. It is the building stone of nutrition. The potato contains about 2½ per cent of protein. You require from 50 to 75 grams of protein a day. If you eat enough potato to furnish you 900 calories you will get about 30 grams of protein, or half your daily allowance, from the potato alone. There is more protein in the young, waxy potatoes—that is what makes them waxy. And there is nearly a third more protein in the skin of the potato than in the flesh. So if your instinct tells you to like thes kin, go to it.

The potato is 18 per cent starch which is what gives it its high caloric value. Fat is low—one-tenth of one per cent.

Now as to vitamins. Ah, those vitamins that some people think you can get only at the drugstore! Well, the potato is full of them. From time immemorial the potato has been known as one of the great scurvy preventives. That means it has Vitamin C. Sir Gilbert Blane, in his "Diseases of the Fleet," published in 1781, stated that scurvy never occurred when potatoes were plentiful in the diet. Modern chemistry finds the white potato to contain 15 milligrams of Vitamin C per 100 grams. You require 60 milligrams daily, which you get in about half a pound of potato.

Vitamin B—thiamine chloride is present in potatoes in the proportion of 150 micrograms per 100 grams. You require 600 micrograms daily.

Vitamin A—a very necessary vitamin for adults, is present in potatoes in the proportion of 50 units per 100 grams. You require 1,500 units daily, which you get in about 1½ pounds of potatoes.

As to minerals, potatoes contain calcium, potassium, magnesium, phosphorus and iron. The calcium and phosphorus are abundant (about a tenth as much as in milk)—the iron in good quantities. In iron content the potato stands just below the rich iron foods like cereals, eggs, peas and meat. It has about the same iron content as cheese.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. C.:—If the urine shows no sugar could there be sugar in the blood?

Answer: There is always sugar in the blood. If it gets above a certain level it generally spills over in the urine. Sometimes, however, but rarely, the kidney filter does not pass the excess and while there is excessive sugar in the blood there is none in the urine.

N. T. C.:—Is electric vibration treatment for cataracts helpful?

Answer: Not only not helpful, but harmful. It takes up the precious time when real treatments could be beneficial.

LARGE DAIRY HERD TO GO ON SALE BLOCK

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, April 6—One of the midwest's largest and most famous dairy herds—born of a lumberman's concern over lack of good milk for an infant granddaughter—goes on the auction block today, a victim of labor shortage.

Longview Farms, now operated by Loula Long Combs, better known throughout the United States as a breeder and exhibitor of thoroughbred showhorses, is disposing of its 758 fine grade dairy cattle and replacing them with 700 beef cattle which need less attention.

Military demands and higher-paying war plant jobs reduced the farm's personnel from a normal 175 to less than 100, Russell Parker, general manager said.

"If we're to protect this $2,500,000 investment, there's nothing to do but sell all of the cows and dairy equipment," he commented.

The Longview dairy herd was established in 1912 by the late R. A. Long, Mrs. Combs' father.

Long, concerned because he was unable to get good milk for an infant granddaughter, bought nearly 1,700 acres and assembled one of the largest herds of purebred Jersey cattle in the country "so that all babies of Kansas City may have dependable milk."

Much of the milk has been given to charitable institutions.

The farm grew into a community of 50 buildings, including a hotel, church, hospital, school house, residences in addition to the dairy barns. Six and one-half miles of surfaced roads spread over the farm.
